Happy Monday All,

Well, for some insane reason, I'm still not in Halifax. I arrived home on Friday night and headed straight out to San Francisco to meet with an importer of French wines in Berkeley. So, this note is simply an abbreviated reminder about this Friday's Rare and Fine Wine Tasting. We only have about 30 spots left for this tasting, so please take a look below and get your tickets either in person at the store, over the phone, or by emailing Alanna directly. alanna@bishops cellar.com

Second Annual Rare and Fine Wine Tasting

This Friday, February 19th from 7pm-9:30pm at the Windows Restaurant in the World Trade Center the Restaurant Association of Nova Scotia in conjunction with Bishop's Cellar will host the second Rare and Fine Wine Tasting. This event will feature over 20 wines from around the world that are handmade, hard to find and highly rated. The list looks very interesting and at $99/person, this event is a great deal. We at Bishop's will be there taking orders and making sure that you get the bottles that you fall in love with. I will be there along with Alanna, Tristan, Erin and several other Bishop's folks to taste with you, answer questions and generally have a great time trying some real gems. Again, there are only about 30 spots left, so please call to purchase your tickets asap.

I look forward to seeing many of you at the Rare and Fine this Friday so we can taste some great bottles and I can regale you with tales of the Iberian Peninsula. Now I have to head into the city to grab some food at a place called RN74. Click on the picture below to check it out.

Then tomorrow, lunch at the Swann Oyster Depot!
